

Souza: 'Liberation Day' will have drastic impact on Colorado, CSU

Emma Souza, Collegian Columnist • April 7, 2025

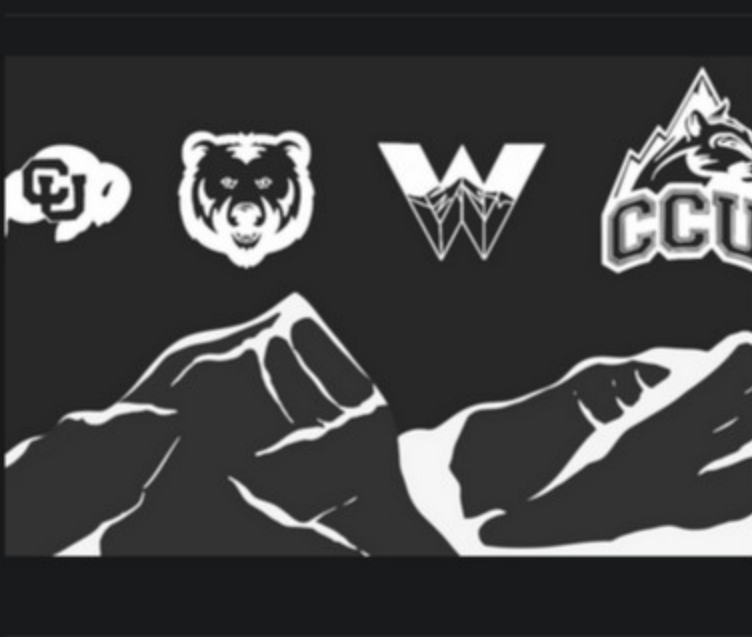

There is nothing remotely freeing about April 2, the day Donald Trump coined "Liberation Day" by signing an executive order implementing tariffs on about 60 countries worldwide. Despite his intentions, the only things being liberated are the bills from our wallets and the success of the stock market.

Souza: Rate My Professors isn't accurate

Emma Souza, Collegian Columnist • March 31, 2025

As much as I love the second half of the spring semester — the warm and fresh weather boosts my mood, work ethic and overall vibe —registering for classes definitely brings unneeded stress to my already stressful life. Not only am I sent into a vicious cycle of worrying about what classes I need and then worrying because they're not offered, but I frequent one website more often than Canvas, Gmail or ChatGPT (jokes, jokes) combined: Rate My Professors.

Souza: What would CSU's campus look like without DEI?

Emma Souza, Collegian Columnist • March 24, 2025

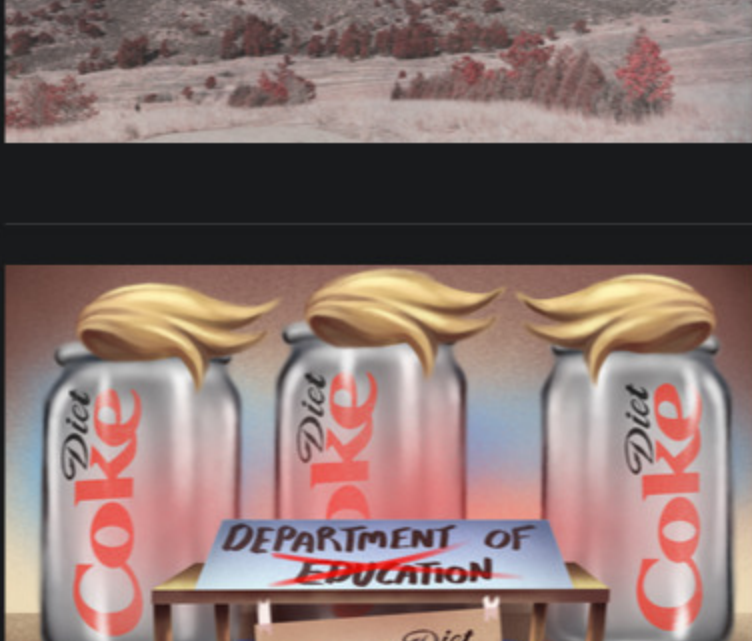

It is sickening to think that an alternate universe without diversity, equity and inclusion policies on Colorado State University campus is an entirely plausible one. Despite student protests, petitions and stale reassurances from the CSU administration, we are already regressing into a campus completely rid of any diversity, equity or inclusion.

Souza: CSU isn't advocating for DEI as well as other Colorado universities

Emma Souza, Collegian Columnist • March 14, 2025

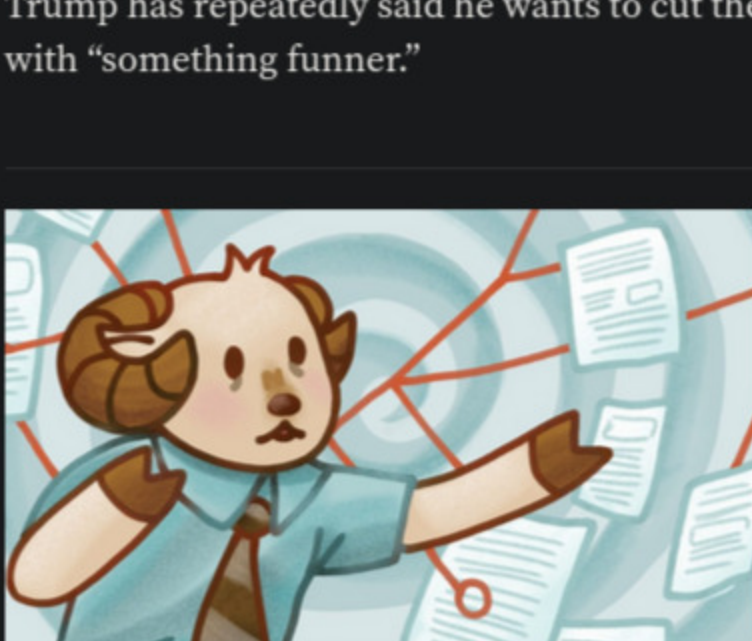

It may appear as though Colorado State University has discussed the recent diversity, equity and inclusion changes sweeping across the country, but let me remind you: The CSU administration is not addressing these executive orders; they're rolling them over.

Souza: CSU admin's public statements fail to address student concerns

Emma Souza, Collegian Columnist • February 24, 2025

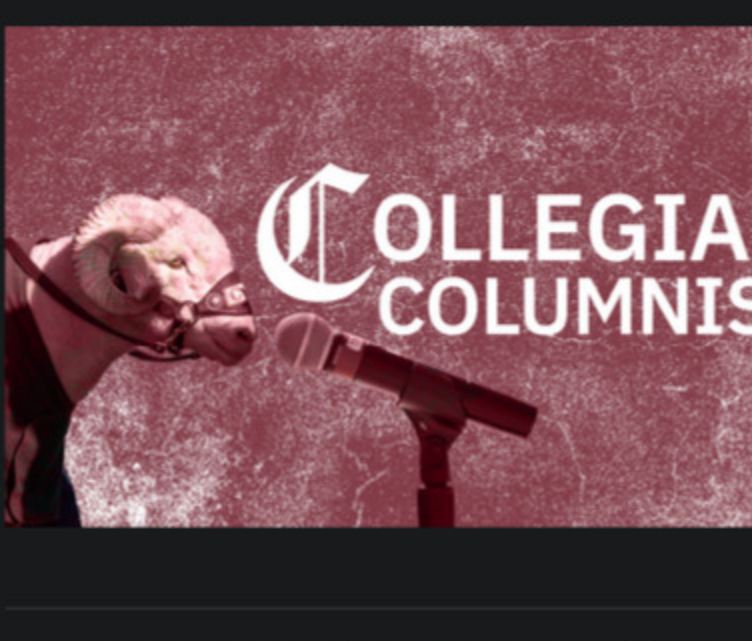

At what point can a public institution stand against policies thrust upon them by those who have historically fanned it?

Seriously: Trump announces replacements for Department of Education

Emma Souza, Collegian Columnist • February 18, 2025

During his path to presidency and even after inauguration, between his stints pardoning QAnon shamans who are more loyal and white than his Jizz napkins, President Donald Trump has repeatedly said he wants to cut the Department of Education. Just yesterday, he announced his plans to replace the department with "something funner."

Souza: Your life is a series of coincidences

Emma Souza, Collegian Columnist • February 11, 2025

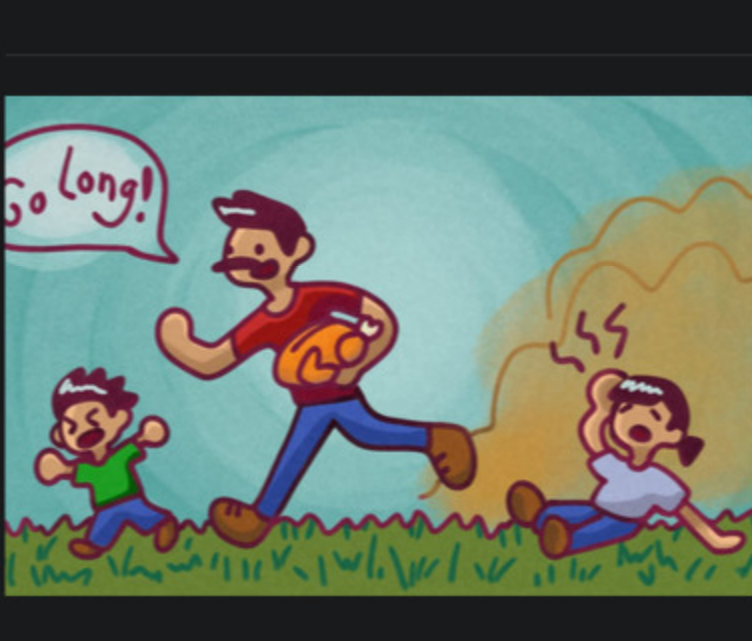

Several years ago, I first saw this video of Angelina Jolie receiving the Jean Hersholt Humanitarian Award at the 2013 Governors Awards, a ceremony by the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences that recognizes various actors' achievements. I'm not particularly moved by award show speeches; I don't particularly watch award shows.

Souza: Apathy will define Trump's presidency

Emma Souza, Collegian Columnist • February 6, 2025

The beginning of Donald Trump's presidency has regrettably been marked by one of the most deadly and tragic U.S. aviation disasters since 2001: the Jan. 29 Washington, D.C., plane collision.

Souza: Why your New Year's resolutions don't stick

Emma Souza, Collegian Columnist • January 27, 2025

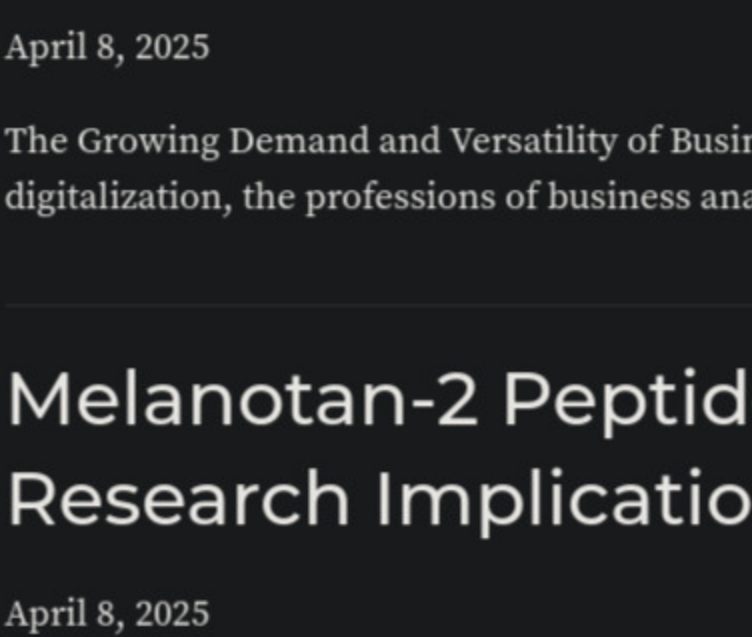

The product of my New Year's resolutions — and likely yours — is a girl I do not recognize. She is ambitious in the same way I was Dec. 31, with a laundry list of goals and affirmations, but she does not carry the laziness and doubt that prevented 2024 me from completing them.

Seriously: I time traveled to write for The Collegian's 1st edition

Emma Souza, Collegian Columnist • December 2, 2024

I awoke one morning to a quill in my hands that folded over my body the way a Victorian child would lie — with sickness and boredom but also a roguish Ozempic look.

Seriously: Thanksgiving football game ends in injuries, several ER visits

Emma Souza, Collegian Columnist • November 21, 2024

Thanksgiving isn't just a holiday about gratitude. At its core, it's a holiday about bloodshed. Long have we normalized — even memorialized — a tradition not meant for regular, everyday humans like us. We try to mimic the gods, these untouchables who dominate the upper echelons of their careers. We pretend our 55-year-old fathers can still throw touchdowns like Aaron Rodgers without throwing out their backs. We wash down our pain and torment with gravy and pumpkin pie afterward.

What Are Cookies And How Are They Used in The Digital World

April 8, 2025

What Are Cookies and How Are They Used in the Digital World Today, almost every online service uses technologies that help make user interaction more convenient and personalized. One of these technologies...

The Growing Demand and Career Opportunities for Business and Systems Analysts

April 8, 2025

The Growing Demand and Versatility of Business and Systems Analysts In the context of rapid technological development and business digitalization, the professions of business analyst and systems analyst...

Melanotan-2 Peptide: Exploring Its Theorized Impacts and Research Implications

April 8, 2025

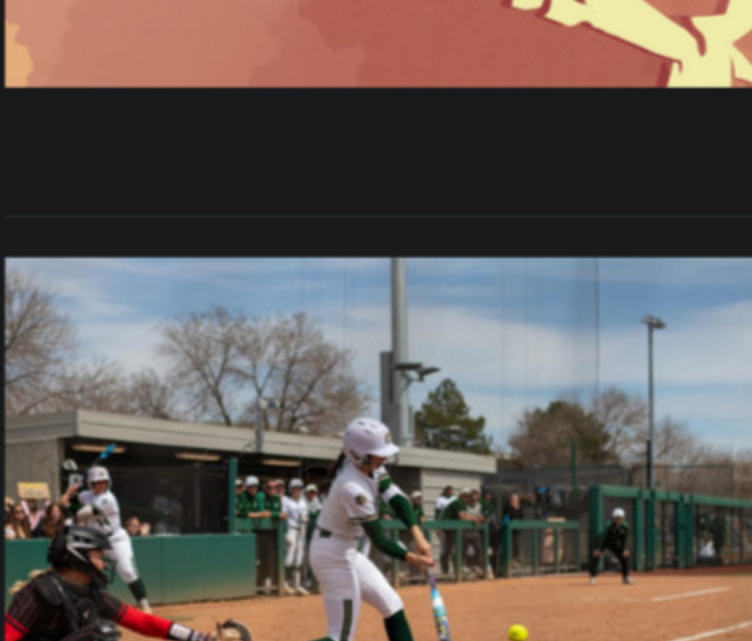

Melanotan-2 (MT-2) is a synthetic analog of the endogenously occurring alpha-melanocyte-stimulating hormone (α-MSH), which has been hypothesized to impact various physiological functions. Initially synthesized...

The Future of Advertising: Native Ads That Redefine Digital Marketing

April 8, 2025

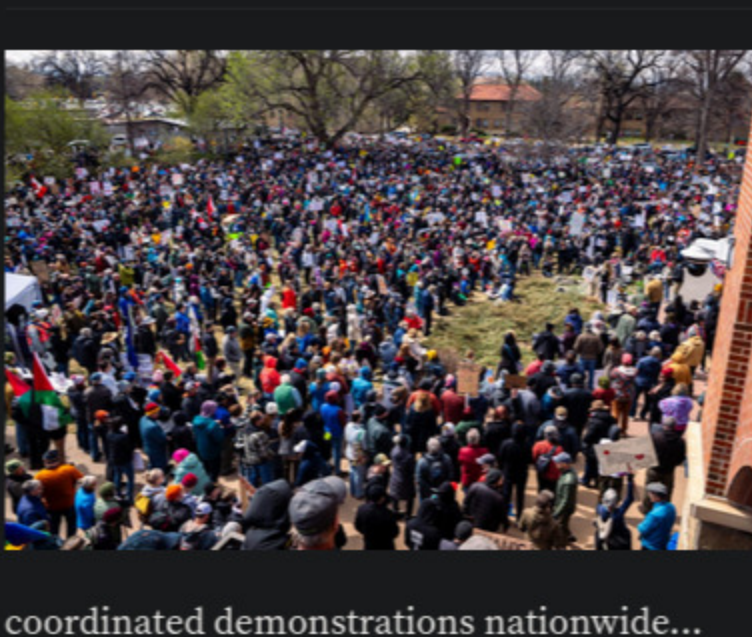

Over the years, digital marketing has seen numerous revolutions. One of the most exciting shifts that have taken place recently is that of native advertising. This evolution occurs as the consumer evolves...

What Are Cookies and How Are They Used in The Digital World

April 8, 2025

What Are Cookies and How Are They Used in the Digital World Today, almost every online service uses technologies that help make user interaction more convenient and personalized. One of these technologies...

Seymour: More amenities on campus should accept RamCash

Charlotte Seymour, Collegian Columnist • April 8, 2025

Editor's Note: All opinion section content reflects the views of the individual author only and does not represent a stance taken by The Collegian or its editorial board. There are two types of students...

Susanne Hou, Bryan Wallick perform live violin sonata at CSU's Organ Recital Hall

Evan Borman, Staff Reporter • April 8, 2025

Chinese Canadian violinist Yi Jia Susanne Hou performed at Colorado State University's Organ Recital Hall April 1 with pianist and Associate Professor of Music at CSU Bryan Wallick. The two performed...

Merriman: The transfer portal is reshaping college sports for better or worse

AJ Merriman, Staff Reporter • April 8, 2025

Editor's Note: All opinion section content reflects the views of the individual author only and does not represent a stance taken by The Collegian or its editorial board. The collegiate transfer portal...

Thorn: Crisis pregnancy centers do not care about women

Astrid Thorn, Collegian Columnist • April 8, 2025

Chances are, if you live in Fort Collins, you have likely seen the Alpha Center on College Avenue. Though it may not be obvious from its generic name or unassuming exterior, the Alpha Center is a facility that claims to offer services to pregnant people, specifically to individuals experiencing unplanned pregnancies.

CSU softball game cut short by blowout from San Diego State

Alex Graser, Staff Reporter • April 7, 2025

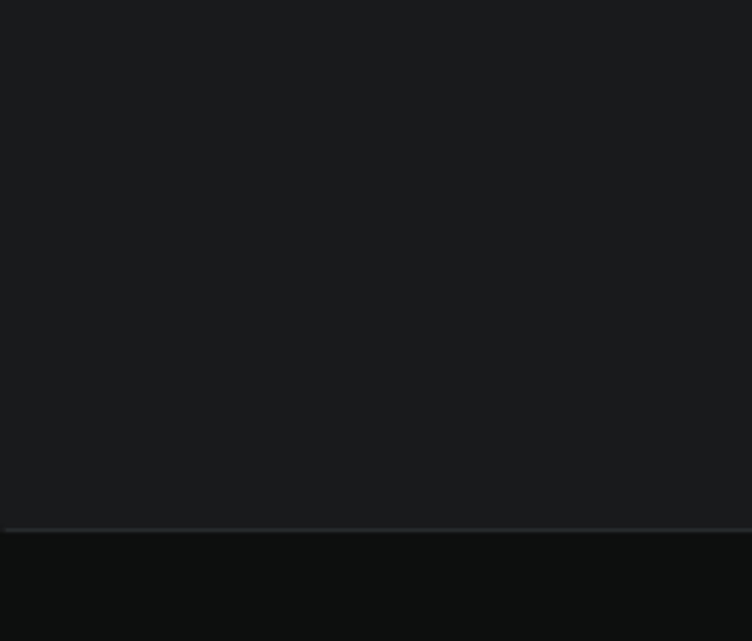

Colorado State was mercy-ruled after five innings, losing to San Diego State 10-2. The Rams struggled to put up runs against the Aztecs. CSU only had one scoring play in the entire game, coming from...

Thousands mobilize at 'Hands Off' rally in FoCo, Denver to protest Trump administration actions

Claire VanDeventer, Sam Hutton, and Aubree Miller • April 7, 2025

On Saturday, April 5, thousands of Colorado State University students and Fort Collins residents gathered in Civic Center Park for the city's "Hands Off" protest, joining coordinated demonstrations nationwide...

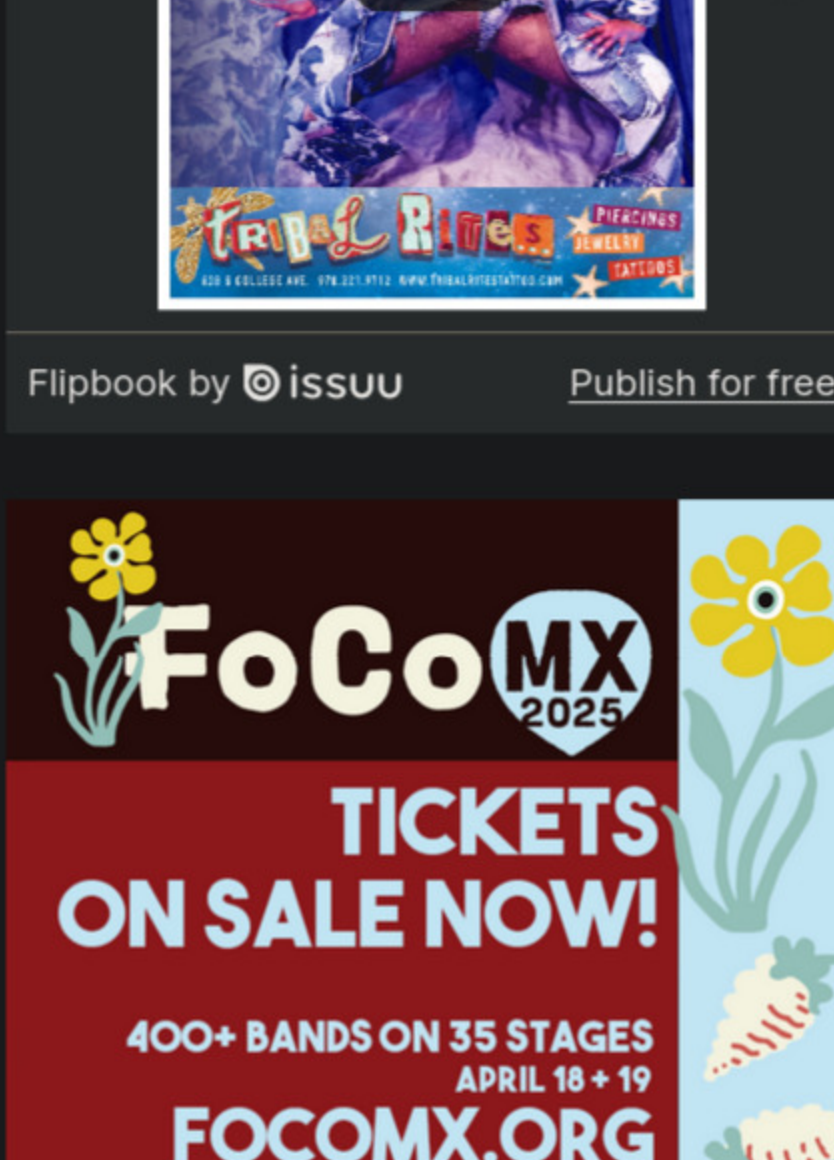

CSU faculty, researchers discuss circular economy model, future of sustainability

Chloe Waskey, Staff Reporter • April 7, 2025

Soil scientist Eugene Kelly and sustainable textile researcher Sonali Diddi delivered a talk April 3 exploring the circular economy model as a potential pathway to a low-carbon economy. The model has become...

Load More Stories

PRINT EDITION

Flipbook by © Issuu Publish for free

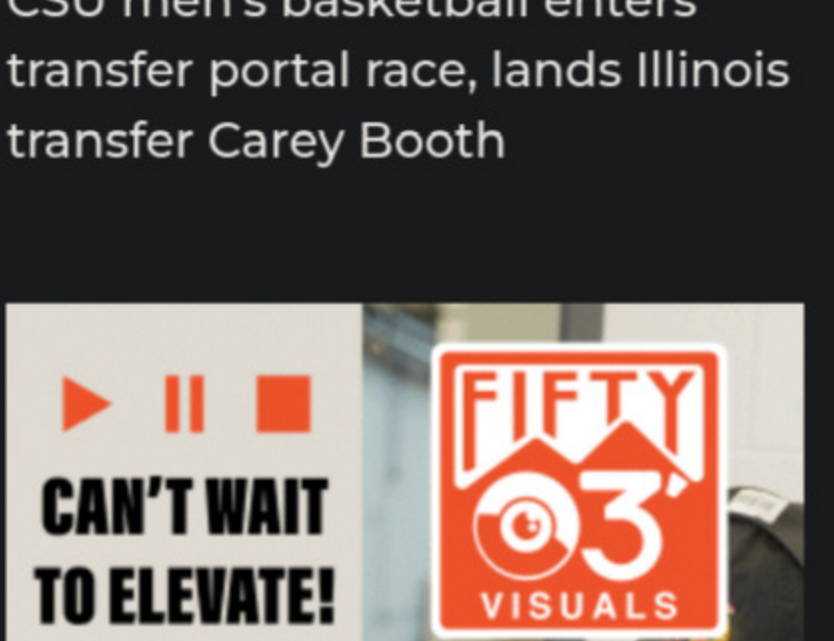

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Have a strong opinion about something happening on campus or in Fort Collins? Want to respond to an article written on The Collegian? Write a Letter to the Editor by following the guidelines here.

TRENDING

Breaking: CSU confirms 6 international student visas have been revoked

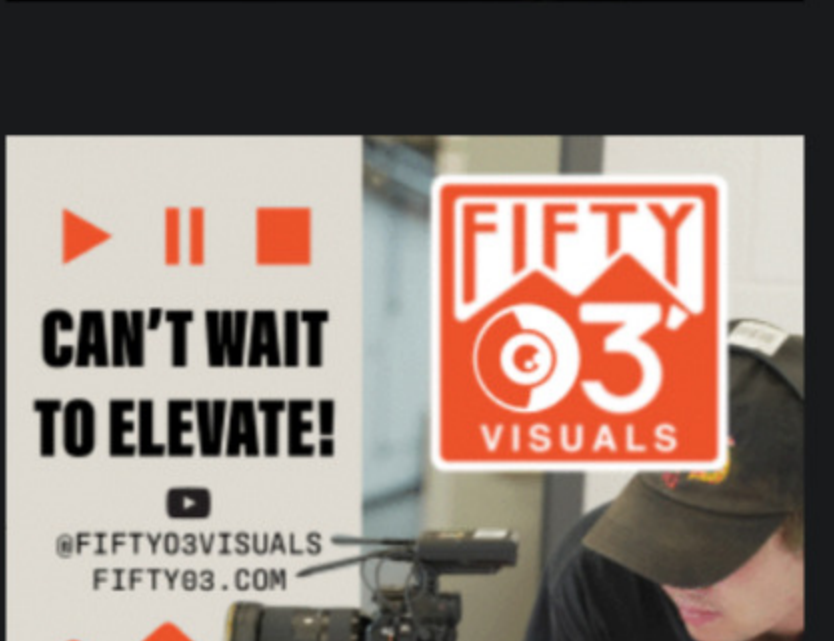

Update: Two victims die after shooting at Foothills Mall, FCPS suspect gang activity

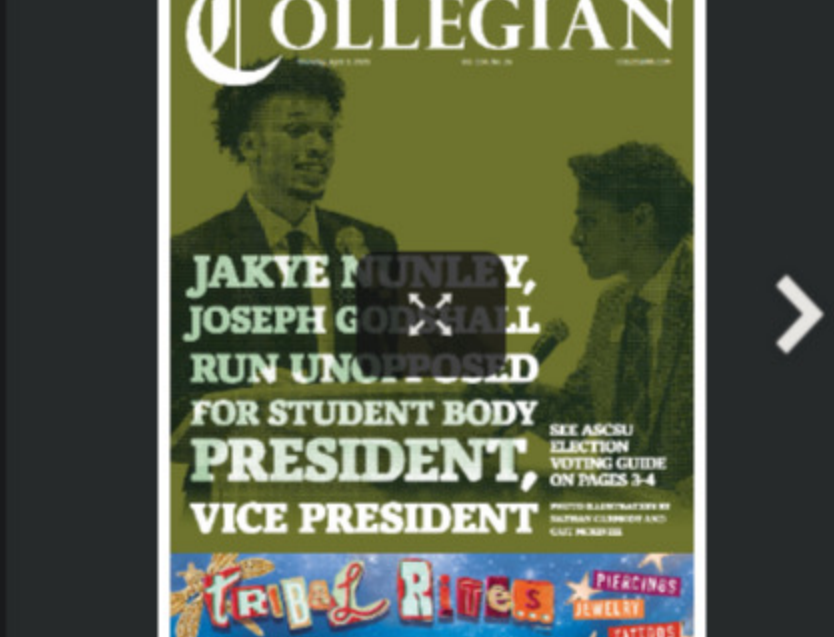

Update: Two victims die after shooting at Foothills Mall, FCPS suspect gang activity

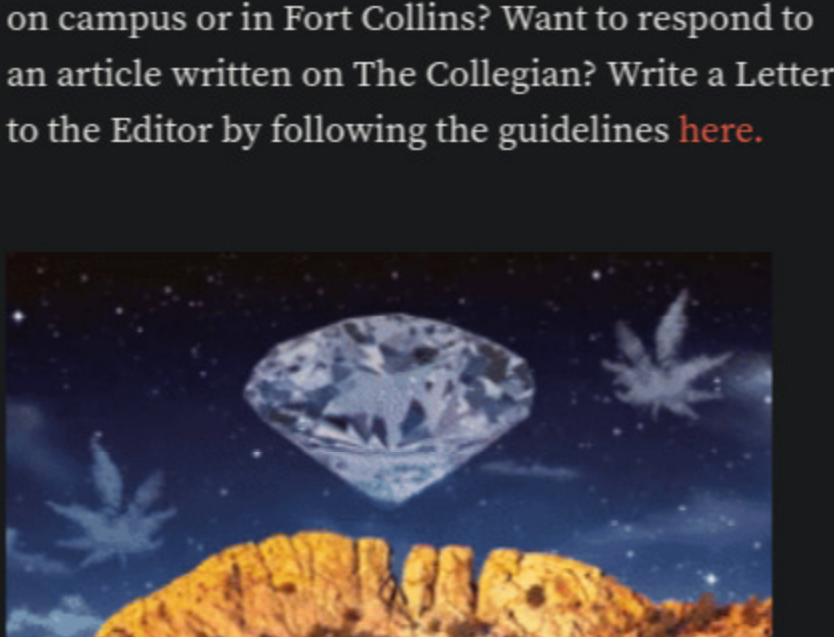

Update: Two victims die after shooting at Foothills Mall, FCPS suspect gang activity

Update: Two victims die after shooting at Foothills Mall, FCPS suspect gang activity

Update: Two victims die after shooting at Foothills Mall, FCPS suspect gang activity

Update: Two victims die after shooting at Foothills Mall, FCPS suspect gang activity

Update: Two victims die after shooting at Foothills Mall, FCPS suspect gang activity

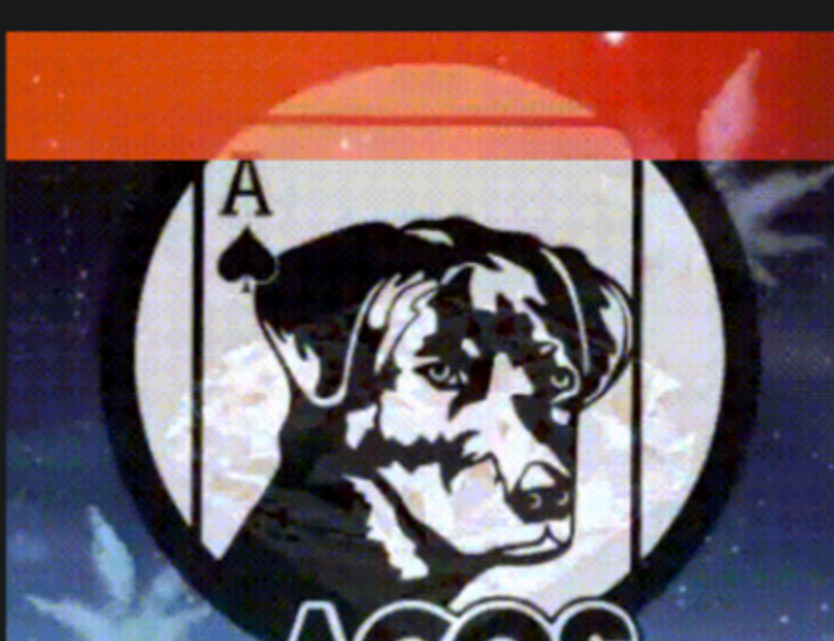

Update: Two victims die after shooting at Foothills Mall, FCPS suspect gang activity

Update: Two victims die after shooting at Foothills Mall, FCPS suspect gang activity

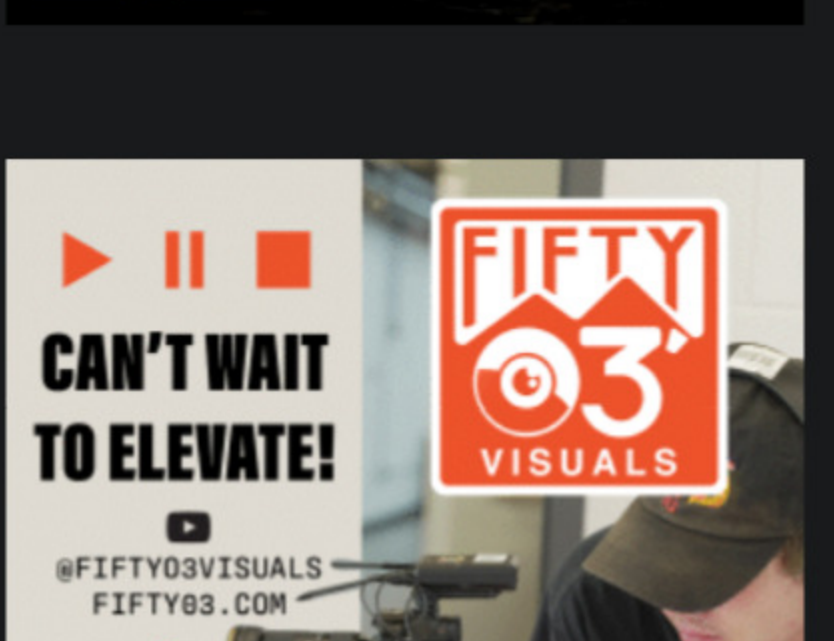

Update: Two victims die after shooting at Foothills Mall, FCPS suspect gang activity

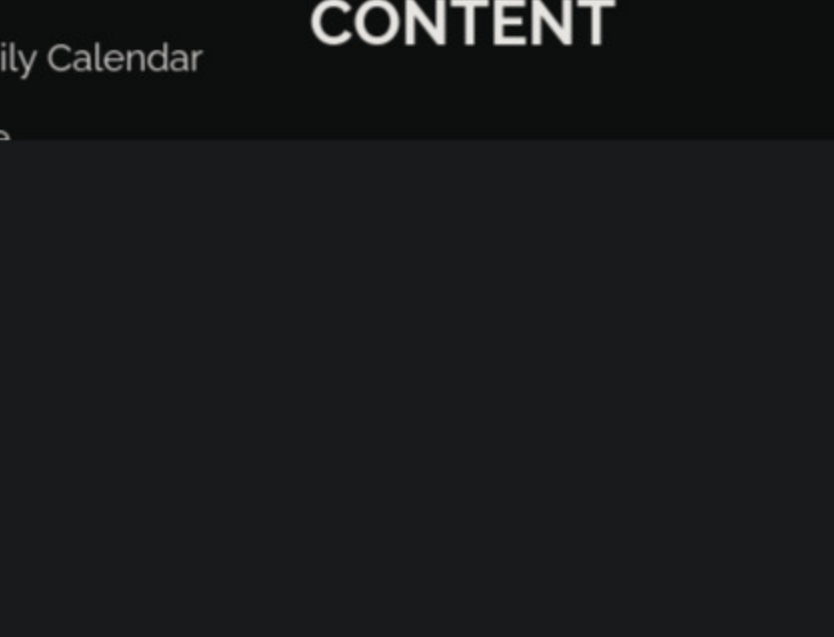

Update: Two victims die after shooting at Foothills Mall, FCPS suspect gang activity

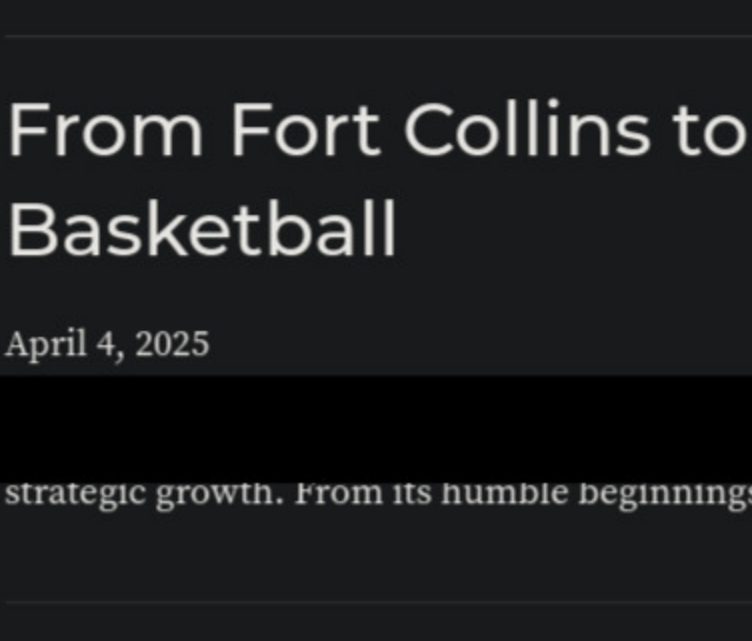

Update: Two victims die after shooting at Foothills Mall, FCPS suspect gang activity

Update: Two victims die after shooting at Foothills Mall, FCPS suspect gang activity

Update: Two victims die after shooting at Foothills Mall, FCPS suspect gang activity

Tory Horton closes collegiate chapter with strong pro day performance

Sophie Webb, Sports Editor • April 5, 2025

Perseverance: a typical word in sports but almost an understatement for Tory Horton's career. The wide receiver chose to forgo the NFL draft after the 2023 season, staying with Colorado State football...

From Fort Collins to the Final Four: Tracing the Rise of CSU Basketball

April 4, 2025

strategic growth. From its humble beginnings in Fort Collins...

Living in Chicago: A Guide to the Windy City Lifestyle

April 3, 2025

Chicago—a city that gets a lot of buzz in the news. Unfortunately, crime rates often steal the spotlight even though the Windy City is so much more than its headlines. If...

Living in Charlotte, NC

April 3, 2025

Charlotte, NC, often called the Queen City, is one of the fastest-growing cities in the country. With a booming job market, diverse neighborhoods, and plenty of entertainment options, it's easy to see...

Living In Overland Park, KS: Things To Know & Places To Visit