

Texas Vaccine Outreach and Education Grant - Round 2

Inform, connect and protect your community.

Home > Texas Vaccine Outreach and Education Grant > Texas Vaccine Outreach and Education Grant - Round 2

The purpose of the second round of the Texas Vaccine Outreach and Education Grant Program is to fund projects that ensure greater access and knowledge of COVID-19 vaccines through education and outreach to populations disproportionately affected by COVID-19. Grantees will be awarded funds to engage their community in proactive COVID-19 vaccine education and outreach activities with the goal of increasing the number of people fully vaccinated for COVID-19 in Texas.

Those who are hesitant to receiving a COVID-19 vaccine could have questions ranging from what the process was for creating the vaccines to wanting more information about the vaccine’s safety and effectiveness. Community-based organizations are critical to informing communities about the COVID-19 vaccines and increasing vaccine confidence for those who are still deciding whether to get vaccinated.

We invite statewide organizations, academic institutions, and community-based organizations of all sizes who have strong, direct relationships with the populations they serve to apply for funding. Engagement activities such as hosting events, canvassing door-to-door, or providing other services directly to the community are greatly valued. Even if your organization’s mission or regular operations aren’t vaccine or public-health related, Texas A&M University Health Science Center and the Department of State Health Services are here to provide guidance, toolkits, resources, and other technical assistance throughout the project timeline.

COVID-19 vaccines currently available in the United States have been shown to be highly effective at preventing and mitigating severe disease from COVID-19. Preventing disparities in access to and knowledge of COVID-19 vaccines is important to reduce the disproportionate impacts of the virus. Lower vaccination rates among some groups leaves them at increased risk for infection, especially as new variants spread.

Priority will be given to applicants who are:

- Statewide organizations proposing targeted community interventions addressing communities of color, rural communities, and/or Texans with disabilities
- Groups or organizations focusing on serving parents of children in Texas regarding COVID-19 vaccine safety and efficacy
- Groups or organizations focusing on one or more of ten counties in Texas with low vaccination rates (Bell, Bowie, Ector, Grayson, Jefferson, Johnson, McLennan, Parker, Tom Green, and/or Wichita)
- Groups or organizations focusing on serving Tribal Nations
